

Building Language Through Play

What are the benefits of play with toddlers?

The answer is that play creates opportunities for children to communicate and connect with others. Our children are able to watch, listen, explore, imitate, and form language when participating in play. This program is designed for toddlers (2-3 years) and parents to learn to enhance communication through play. We will teach strategies to increase interaction through play and provide simple routines and games that can be easily incorporated in the home environment.
